

ROOSEVELT OPENS STRONG

Sharp Raid on Wall St. and Tammany.

HIS FIRST BROADSIDE

In Campaign in New York—Rights of the People, He Says, Is Issue—Declares Convention Absolutely Controlled by Murphy.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived here about noon yesterday, and in a partisan speech which he struck out in sledge-hammer fashion at the New York Democrats, he opened the Republican campaign in this state for the election of Henry L. Stimson as governor, and the rest of the Republican ticket.

Col. Roosevelt bore down on Dunkirk wearing his fighting clothes and his fighting face. He assailed the alliance which he declares exists between Wall street and Tammany. He pounded at Murphy, and shouted out for the driving of the crooks from public life. He minced no words and made it entirely clear in this, the first real speech he has made in setting the New York campaign in motion, that he intends to use the big stick in this fight with the utmost abandon on the heads of Murphy, Dix, the alliance between crooked politics and crooked business, and against bossism and corruption in every form.

"I'll give them," said the colonel between his set and gleaming teeth, "something to think about." In saying this he put unusual emphasis on the "think."

"Wall street and Tammany hall have struck hands," he declared in his speech here. "We are fighting for the rule of the people against the most shameless combination of crooked politics and crooked finance that our state has seen since Tweed was driven from power."

John A. Dix, Democratic candidate for governor, he dismissed with a few words, as the "respectable and unimportant figurehead of Tammany hall," to elect whom, he said, Wall street was doing all in its power, because it knew him, and because the people did not.

"He is chosen precisely because he has no public record," the colonel declared. "If elected, he would be utterly powerless in the grip of his masters."

Col. Roosevelt said that Charles F. Murphy was the Democratic state convention. "The delegates to the convention represented nobody, not even themselves," he shouted. "Mr. Murphy was everything."

"There never was a clearer issue than that involved in this contest in New York. It is in no sense a mere party fight, and we have a right to appeal to every man who prizes the honor of the state of New York and the good name of America to help us. We stand squarely for the elimination of special privileges, for the separation of business and politics, for honesty in public life; we stand for the rule of the people, and for the prevention of the prostitution of politics to money-getting. Our opponents call themselves the Democracy of the state of New York, but they have no claim to use the name of any historic national party; and it is a libel on such Democrats of the past as Andrew Jackson to associate with the party to which he belonged this conscienceless alliance between Wall street and Tammany hall. They have a right to the support of every crooked politician, and every crooked money-getter, but they have no right to the support of a single honest business man, a single honest farmer, or a single honest wage-worker."

"I ask you to look at the facts, not as we ourselves may repeat them, but as our opponents themselves admit them. The so-called Democratic convention at Rochester, except in so far as the members were allowed to meet and register the decrees of the boss of Tammany hall, Mr. Murphy, was in no sense whatever a convention."

"Now you need not take my testimony for this, take the testimony of every Wall street paper, all of which are now supporting Mr. Murphy's candidates. Before and during the convention, for instance, these same papers (I will name them to you if you wish) in describing what was occurring stated that Mr. Mur-

Knees Became Stiff

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism

The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 44 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is another victory by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years. It kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's."

phy held the convention in the hollow of his hand, that never before had there been a convention in which Tammany hall was so absolutely in control, and they added that the most sinister feature of the occasion was that the streets were full of lobbyists and corporation attorneys, and that these men had reached Rochester before the delegates themselves. They also stated, truthfully, that all the candidates were going, but in hand, not to the convention, but to Mr. Murphy.

"This was what these Wall street papers stated before the convention, and as a matter of fact, what actually occurred was even worse. The delegates to the convention really represented nobody, not even themselves. Mr. Murphy was everything. There was but one candidate before that convention who ventured to appeal for votes in the convention, and that was Mr. Suler, and he only got a score of votes. Not another candidate paid the slightest heed to the convention, but humbly accepted Mr. Murphy's fiat as final."

IN FULL ACCORD WITH TAFT.

Statement by Colorado State Committee on Attitude in the Campaign.

Denver, Col., Oct. 15.—After a meeting of the Republican state committee Thursday night, the following statement was given out: "Some misapprehension exists as to the attitude of the Republican candidates for Congress in Colorado this year on national matters. Many letters and telegrams have been received by candidates, asking them to define their position in relation to the candidacy of Speaker Cannon for reelection as speaker of the federal House of Representatives, should he be such a candidate. The Colorado Republican congressional candidates have answered such questions as their consciences and convictions dictated, and each and all of them have asserted in positive terms that they stood squarely upon the Republican state and national platforms and that they would, if elected, at all times support the national Republican administration and its policies, and that they would support for speaker only a Republican in full accord with President Taft and his policies. This position is all that can be asked for by any Republican voter and is entirely satisfactory to the Republican state organization."

FIND RESTELLI'S BODY AT QUINCY

Police Investigating Quarry Hole Drag Murderer's

REMAINS TO THE SURFACE

Heavily Weighted Down—Same Pond Dynamited Before in Long Search, But Without Result—Pistols Still in Belt.

Quincy, Mass., Oct. 15.—The body of Louis G. Restelli, the Italian who murdered his mother and Henry E. Hardwick, in Quincy July 29, was found in Merrymount quarry at Quincy yesterday by J. R. Qualey, fish and game warden of Braintree, an old granite manufacturer, and Patrick Milford, a special policeman of Quincy. Qualey and Milford had had grappling lions at Hardwick's office for several days and yesterday forenoon they had been at work dragging different parts of the quarry, which is filled with water to a depth of seventy or eighty feet.

Their iron brought a body to the surface at 12:45 o'clock and they at once decided that it was Restelli's. Further identification was made at the undertaking rooms of John Hall, to which the body was removed. Later the remains were taken to the tomb at Mount Wollaston cemetery. It had been announced that the city bells would be rung as soon as Restelli was taken; but no bells sounded, for the reason that the authorities wanted to be certain beyond a doubt before making public announcement. Nevertheless, there is little doubt about the identification.

The Merrymount quarry, where the body was found, was owned formerly by Andrew Ericson. It is at the end of Carroll's lane about half a mile away from the office of the Hardwick Brothers. The fact that Restelli, laden with two bundles, was seen going in the direction of the quarry the day before the tragedies led the police to drag the quarry.

The body when found had a bullet hole in the neck. A belt around the waist contained two 38-caliber revolvers and a dirk-knife. The wrists were handcuffed, and to each wrist was attached a ten-pound bullet hammer. It is supposed that the articles for weighting his body were taken to the quarry by Restelli in the bundles which he was seen to have the day before the murders.

Restelli's disappearance completely baffled the police of Quincy and all New England and New York state, where the search was carried on continuously for several weeks, after his awful crimes, and now the explanation is at hand. Chief Burrell and other policemen of Quincy and nearby cities felt confident for some time that the murderer was hiding or had killed himself in the abandoned quarries of the common section, where he was last seen. For some time searchers were engaged in hunting through the quarries and in dragging the deep pools of water, until finally the search was given up, excepting for sporadic work by interested individuals, which was somewhat stimulated by the several rewards offered. One or two of the rewards will cover the finding of the body, a total of $1,500 having been offered in all, but only a part of it for the dead body provided it was found after Restelli had committed suicide.

One feature of the hunt which caused no end of annoyance to the police of many places, and especially those of Quincy, was the fact that hardly an hour passed for two weeks after the shooting but that someone reported having seen the Italian somewhere in New England or New York state, and he was even reported as far away as Cape Breton, where the self-constituted "detective," who claimed to have tracked Restelli, was later found with his throat cut.

The latest report of someone having "positively identified" Restelli, came from a Vermont quarryman who had arrived home from Italy and who claimed that he saw Restelli in his native land, but gave no notice to the authorities there because he had not then heard of the murders.

New York, Oct. 15.—Alexander N. Evalenko, the Russian publisher of this city, who was found guilty by a revolutionary committee of being the chief spy of the Russian police department in New York, the principal witness against him being Vladimir Bourtsief, could not be found Thursday. It was admitted by Evalenko's intimate friends that he was in the vicinity of New York.

AMERICAN POTATOES WIN.

After 35 Years They Will Be Admitted to France.

Paris, Oct. 15.—A commission of scientists has come to the conclusion that American potatoes are no longer a source of contamination, and the French government has decided to admit this product, which has been barred out of France since 1875, on the ground that it was infected with a disease dangerous to French potatoes.

ITALY FEARS A STRIKE.

Employees of Post and Railway Systems Plan General Movement.

Rome, Oct. 15.—The Italian government is following the strike situation in France with keenest interest. There is reason for this, as it is known that the employees of the Italian post, telegraph, telephone and railroad systems are organizing for a general strike next December. This, if carried into effect, in addition to paralyzing the economic and commercial life of the country, might lead to serious political trouble.

In the next inning the Highlanders scored as a result of a base on balls to Knight, two infield outs and a stinging single by Mitchell. With Warhop and Wiltsie going nicely, it looked like a Giant's victory until the eighth inning, when after two men had perished, Hemphill drove the ball to left.

Chase followed with a terrific smash to center which got away from Snodgrass, Hemphill scoring and Chase taking second.

The Highlanders' enthusiasts shouted for Knight to tie the score and the shortest slashed a single into left, sending Chase home. Devlin tried to block Chase as he rounded third base, but umpire Evans saw the interference and allowed the run.

Snodgrass was hit by a pitched ball in the ninth. He was forced at second by Murray and scored on a hot double by Devlin. With only a run needed to tie the score in the ninth, manager Chase noted that Wiltsie was weakening under the strain. He ordered his men to wait the pitcher out and in consequence Gardner, the first man up, walked. Mitchell was hit by a pitched ball and the stands went wild. Roach batting for Warhop laid down a perfect sacrifice, and Austin promptly singled right, scoring Gardner. Mitchell taking third. Daniels hit to Devlin and Mitchell was caught at the plate. Hemphill, who had been hitting hard all day, was purposely passed, filling the bases.

Wiltsie, clearly rattled, could not find the plate, and Chase, the next batter, walked, forcing in Austin with the winning run.

DOG DIDN'T SHOOT HER.

Mysteriously Wounded Woman in Hospital Has a New Story Now.

New York, Oct. 15.—By a request of the hospital authorities that a coroner be sent to take a woman's ante-mortem statement in Presbyterian hospital, the police learned Thursday night for the first time that Mrs. Elsa Massette, 21 years old, said to be a vaudeville actress, had been shot in the abdomen while handling a revolver in her home.

Although the superintendent of the hospital asserted that the woman had told the physicians the shooting had been caused by a pet dog jumping into her lap and striking the trigger of the revolver which she had been holding, Coroner Winterbottom declared she had told him that the weapon had been discharged accidentally while she was attempting to lower its hammer.

The weapon was of small calibre and Mrs. Massette, it is expected, will recover. At the hospital it was said the woman had arrived in a cab, accompanied by her husband, who is a clerk employed by an express company. He could not be found Thursday night. A woman neighbor of the Massettes said that she had neither seen nor heard of a dog in the next apartment.

COTTON IMPORT, $15,816,138.

United States Supply Below Demand During Fiscal Year.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The United States, greatest producing country of the world, imported in the fiscal year 1910, 86,037,891 pounds of raw cotton, valued at $15,816,138, the second largest year's importation of cotton in the history of the country. Most of the imported cotton came from Egypt, according to the department of commerce and labor, though some came from Europe and Asia. The average price was about 30 per cent. higher than that which ruled for American cotton.

The importation of cotton, according to the statisticians, is increasing because of the greatly increasing consumption of the American product in home markets. The home consumption of American cotton grew from 1,000,000 bales in 1870 to over 5,000,000 in 1909.

THE THIN AND WEAK

Easy Way for Them to Get Strong and Fat.

To thin and weak, D. F. Davis has a word to say. Let them use Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, that is now so popular, and they will soon be plump and rosy.

Samose is not an ordinary medicine; it is a flesh-forming food that is adapted to the most delicate. Its tonic effect gives strength and health, so that after its use for a short time all the flesh and fat producing elements in the food will be easily assimilated and retained by the body.

The large sale Druggist Davis has had on Samose since he first introduced it in Barre and the wonderful results following its use have made him such an enthusiastic believer in its great merits that he gives his personal guarantee to refund the money if Samose does not make thin people fat and restore strength and health.
